JUNE 2022 / FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

New Sirena 78 to launch, the yacht that can do it all

- Class-leading volume makes this model excellent for entertaining guests.
- Long-range capabilities mean the Sirena 78 can help her owner discover new, luxurious locales.
- An interior-design concept with a focus on livability and customizability sets this yacht apart from her competition.

Sirena Yachts is thrilled to announce the debut of its brand-new 78 at the 2022 Cannes Yachting Festival. The 78 will offer distinctive features that set her apart from her competition. She is designed to be a do-it-all cruiser that excels as well as an entertainment platform as she does on longer-range voyages. The yacht will also be noteworthy for her unique interior and exterior layout options—and in particular, the option to offer two saloons based on the owner’s choice.

The Sirena 78 has myriad points of attraction from a design standpoint that should attract a wide range of buyers. Her flying bridge is available either in open, semi-enclosed or fully enclosed formats. Each of the latter iterations benefits from super-sized windows that let in natural light and also allow for excellent views. Sirena decided to offer these options as their clients tend to boat in a variety of locales with differing climates.

The 78 will be absent of a main-deck helm station, which opens up space in that area for entertaining. The sheer amount of space the removal of the helm engenders means that all guests aboard the Sirena 78 will have lots of room to relax and socialize on the main deck.

The centerpiece on the main-deck’s interior will be a massive galley that proves this model’s bona fides as an entertainment ace. There, an enormous island provides loads of counter space that makes entertaining easy and also makes food prep a cinch. A deep sink, extra stowage, and full-size appliances round out the galley.

Sirena’s new 78 will also have a revolutionary loose-furniture concept that is sure to impress any potential client. Pieces of furniture such as settees and ottomans will be able to be arranged nearly anywhere an owner so desires. In this way, the layout of the boat is ever-changing and even more customizable. The interior of a Sirena 78 could look like a different boat within the space of a single day!

Down below, a full-beam, amidships master cabin with a private bath and dressing area is dedicated to the owner. A forepeak VIP is also en suite and benefits from large windows that let passengers watch the water peel away from the hull as the yacht is underway.

Lastly, the 78 will have a unique foredeck area that is assured to be a favorite with anyone who might step foot upon her. The key element on this deck is a massive sunpad flanked by tables to port and starboard accompanied by L-shaped settees. The overall effect of this setup is a true alfresco lounge—one which should be a hit wherever this capable cruiser may roam.

The Sirena 78 falls in size right in the middle of the builder's lineup, and is in a sweet spot for owner-operators and those who would prefer a crew. She exemplifies her Turkish builder's passion for the sea, and benefits greatly from Sirena's construction expertise and design innovation. When she debuts in France, she is sure to be the star of the show.
